The Editor of the Maharaja's College

WHAT DRINK WILL BRING YOU TO.

How alcohol destroys a man's faculties in an exactly inverse order to that of their acquirement has been most graphically depicted by Dr. A. D. Bush, the well known authority on mental diseases.

Dr. Bush declares alcohol to be a somatic (body) poison which acts upon the tissues destructively, and produces more or less acute but well marked psycheses (derangement of the nervous system).

"Opium," he says, "overwhelms the organism, produces collapse; strychnine exhausts the centres of respiration; prussic acid paralyses at once, but alcohol insidiously attacks the highest functions of the brain and mind and successively, and in inverse order overthrows all the intellectual faculties acquired by the evolutionary process, reduces man to the level of the brute, and finally to the gutter as a mere animate being.

In the development of the child the emotion of shame is a later acquirement than the emotion of fear, and, hence in the process of devolution or regression, the former would be sooner lost. Likewise the faculty of reason, first manifested by the infant in the fourth month, is a higher faculty than that of memory shown in the second week of life. Consequently the power of reasoning would be surrendered while memory remained active. And so with other faculties which will be enumerated presently the highest being the power of discrimination and of self-control.

Among the first faculties then which a man loses when he becomes intoxicated are his fine self control, his discrimination and his sense of shame. Hence he raises his voice and talks inadvisedly, disagreements of no moment irritate him, he becomes voluble and indulges in high flown rhetoric, in patriotic bunkum, or in shallow sentimentality. In short, alcohol so weakens his judgment that he can no longer distinguish the trivial from the important.

Also he grows restless and walks about gesticulating wildly, for as his power for deliberative movements is impaired, so his ability for expressive movements, which was an earlier acquirement is temporarily increased. As a consequence, besides his gesticulations with arms, shoulders, and body, he makes grimaces, wags his head, and laughs and cries by turns easily and exceedingly. Next, this faculty, in its turn, weakening the imitative faculty appears. He now yelps, barks and crows, or imitates ridiculously the speech of those about him. Then at last his attention wanes and his movements become more uncertain until no longer able to co-ordinate his muscles, he sinks to the floor, where he lies twitching, and then still, breathing stertorously. Thus he returns by the alcohol route to the helplessness of the babe.

The superficial brilliancy of speech sometimes displayed by the intoxicated comes from the loss of higher faculty of abstract thought and the consequent increase of constructive imagination with its still more inferior companion, reminiscent imagination. But though the speech of the drunkard appear brilliant, adorned as it were with metaphor and extravagant imagery, his thoughts lack coherence and rationality, and his seeming brilliancy soon abates and ends in unintelligible gibbering."

So much for the intellectual regression, now for the emotinal, which is quite as interesting.

"The primitive emotions, (in the order of their succession as named by Dr. Bush) are surprise, fear, social feelings, pugnacity anger, affection, sympathy, pride, grief, hate, benevolence, shame, remorse, and lastly the æsthetic sense.

Now what is the usual emotional picture presented by a well educated and intelligent man who has "taken too much" ?

We show such a one a fine painting, and his blunted æsthetic sense pronounces it "rotten".

A friend pities his condition, and the drunken one shows remorse and shame. He swears he'll never take another drink, and calls himself a fool.

The next minute he invites every one to have "another" with him (benevelence). Some one refuses and is abused roundly by the tipsy one (hate), Suddenly grief succeeds, and he weeps copiously. Then noting the smiles of those surrounding him, he feels resentment, pride comes to his aid, and with his head held high, and his chest thrown out, he struts about boasting of his exploits, and of those of his forbears. Next he becomes sympathetic, affectionate, and playful and capers about poking his companions in the ribs, knocking off their hats, and cracking coarse jokes. But not finding his jokes and antics appreciated, he grows angry, and wants to fight. Then again, his mood changes, and he is excessively social and calls every man his friend. He may think for the first time even of his family, and stagger toward the door intending to go home, but, if it is night, the darkness without frightens him (fear), and he falls prostrate. Then recovering somewhat, he half raises himself, and gazing round in great surprise, asks what happened, until, his thoughts growing still more confused, he becomes indifferent to all impressions, and sprawls over, an insensate hulk of what was a man."

Alcohol is thus seen to be not only an exceedingly subtle poison, but is also, in its power of reversing the evolutionary process, one of the most remarkable drugs known.

EDITORSHIP.

Will all members kindly note that from this date all literary communications intended for the Magazine should be addressed to Clr. Sgt. F. Gill, Brigade Staff Office, Fort St. George, Madras.

Owing to us being unable to give the required time to the editing of this journal and other reasons, we have resigned this honourable office, and we await the aceptance of this resignation by the Grand Lodge Executive. We hope that our successor will do a greater amount of justice to this publication, than perhaps we have. We thank all our readers for the kind courtesy always extended to us. We also take this last oppurtunity of thanking those who have kindly sent us articles for publication especially to those who sent in serial stories, hoping you will continue to send on more articles and etc., to our successor. We wish all the members in the jurisdiction every success in all their temperance work. We wish one and all a long good-bye!

Wishing you all a happy New Year.

Grand Chief Templar's Column

I much regret that I was unable to contribute to the Official Organ for November.

During the past two months I have visited the following Lodges Officially :—

"Pioneer" No. 2.

"Crystal" No. 5.

"Aryan" No. 6

"Marine" No. 10.

"Perambur Hope" No. 12.

"Pride of the Hills" No. 14.

"Ebenezer" No. 22.

"Fort" No. 48.

On the 18th November 1911, it is proposed to hold a Special Grand Lodge Degree Session at Madras, it is hoped that a large number of members will attend and some good will result.

Brother T. V. Subbrayulu Naidu has been appointed D. D. G. C. T. for No. III District and Brother W. A. Fletcher, for No. IV District. I wish both these Brothers a prosperous term of office.

I would remind members that the time to send motions to the Grand Secretary for next Grand Lodge Session is drawing near (See Article 79 G. L. Bye-Laws.) Should Lodge have any motions to put forward I ask that they be thoroughly discussed and threshed out before adoption It saves a great deal of time in the Grand Lodge and we require a good deal of time next session for matters of importance.

During the past quarter "Malabar's Preseverance" Lodge No 8 was instituted at Cannanore and "Rock" Lodge at Bellary. I wish both of these Lodges long life and prosperity. The former Lodge was formed from "Oxfordshire Pride" No. 52-M, Branch

No 1, the members of this Branch and mother Lodge at Wellington generously presented all the property at Cannanore to the new Lodge.

"Goodwill" Lodge No. 34 has now left our Grand Lodge for the Grand Lodge of India. I am sure we all wish the Lodge prosperity and success in its new Station.

I find there are many members in various parts of the Grand Lodge who are entitled to either the District or Grand Lodge Degree but who do not trouble to take any Degree. Sisters and Brothers I appeal to all who are eligible for any Degree whatever to take the same at the earliest possible opportunity.

It has been reported that the sale of the Official Organ is not so good as it ought to be. I hope every member will try to realise that without practical support and ample means the Editor cannot make the paper what we all desire to see it—a success and a credit to our Grand Lodge.

Greetings and best wishes to all.

REPORTS

D. S. J. W. Report No. 3 Dist.

In rendering this my first report upon the work of the above district, I now take this opportunity of thanking the G. S. J. W. and the members for electing me to the office of D. S. J. W. and promise them I will do, what we as Good Templars are asked to do, that is:—"Our level best" If every Good Templar did this what a glorious record we should have in 1912.

I should also like to thank the members of the Perambur Hope Juvenile Temple for the splendid time I had with them a few weeks ago at their 6th anniversary. As well as to wish the S. J. W. and A. S. J. W. every success that can come to them.

Regarding Juvenile Templary in No. 3 District I am pleased to say we are still increasing both in numbers and also in Temples. But still there is more to be done in this large City of Madras, and I hope that during my term of office to do my level best for the Juveniles and also hope that more adults will give the Juveniles a little more help as the Juveniles which are at present are to be the ones to take the work up when we are called away.

With heartiest greeting from all co-workers in Madras, to all co-workers in India, and to our G. S. J. W.

I remain,

Yours fraternally,

No. VI District (Nilgiris.)

Dear Sir and Brother

I have much pleasure in reporting the progress of this District during the past month which I am pleased to say is very satisfactory considering the changes that have taken place during October.

I have visited several Lodges, and have found them pushing along in grand style and every thing in working order, except one Lodge which I was sorry to see working in such a poor way, and sincerely hope the next visit will find them a little nearer to the Constitution than what they are at present.

Lodges on the West Coast, I am glad to say are doing well, although all new to the place, have settled down to some good earnest Good Templary. May they succeed in their efforts.

At Wellington, things are going grand. On the 11th Oct. Angel of Peace No. 1 gave a social to welcome the brother from the West Coast, and was successfully carried out. Here our Chief had an opportunity of giving a few words of advise to all urging all to work for our cause in Wellington; also the Grand Secretary, came forward with a few chosen words of encouragement, asking all not to forget the goods that are now at his office for sale. Several of the visitors expressed their pleasure in being present at such a gathering and hoped that they would see some good work done in the Station.

I sincerely hope all will take the G. C. T. and Grand Secretary's words to heart and work for the redemption of mankind, put their heart and soul into the work and prove themselves true Good Templars.

With fraternal greetings to all,

I remain,

Yours very fraternally,

It is with much pleasure that I write to report progress in this District, not a Lodge night passes, but what there are iniitiations and others proposed. Last quarter the membership was doubled, and it bids fair to be trebled in the current quarter.

A great deal of work has been done, and we are now beginning to see the fruit of our labour, which gives us encouragement to go on still further.

The letters from Grand Lodge Executive have been sent out to all old members, so far no response has been received since last report. I have conferred the Dist. Degree on Bros. H. Smith, C. Wilmshurst, and E. Saunders; we congratulate them upon taking the degree, and hope it will prove a stimulus to renewed effort in our great work of reclaiming the fallen.

With fraternal greetinsg in

No. 9 (Bellary) Dist. Convention.

It is with much pleasure that I am able to pen a very satisfactory report of the above District Convention.

During the past month we have had a very busy time. On the 5th Oct. we had a public meeting in the Fort which resulted in the Institution of the Rock Lodge No. 4 on the 26th October. Although the Lodge was instituted with only the 10 necessary members they have received 9 other members at the 2 Regular Sessions on the 31—10—11 and 7—11—11. All the 19 members have taken the District Degree and have become members of the Convention. On the 31st Oct. a special Degree meeting was called by Bro. H. Hurst Grand Marshal to confer the District Degree on the Charter Members of the New Lodge, 15 of whom were raised to that Degree.

On the 2nd Nov. we elected the New Cabinet who were afterwards Installed by Bro. H. C. Gartery, D. D. G. C. T. As we have some of the new Civilian Members in Office we are hoping for some good results from the coming Quarters work.

On the 9h, Nov. five members were raised to the Dist Degree. This was the first session of the Convention to be held in the Fort. It was a splendid session, there being 46 members present and the programme "New Cabinet to Entertain" was carried out with Bro. W. Newcombe in the Chair and was enjoyed by all.

We have now over 50 members on the Convention Roll Books and we are looking forward to some good times in the future.

An effort is being made to Institute a Juvenile Temple in the Fort shortly and I have hopes that this will be accomplished before this Report is printed.

Hearty Greetings and Best wishes.

No. 7 District Bangalore.

Dear Co-Workers,

Since writing my last report we have lost one lodge from No. 7 District, "Good Will" Lodge 14M, which belonged to the 14th Kings Hussars, who have left this station for Mhow. I have heard that this Lodge has done some good work in the past, and that they were the means of several other Lodges being started. I wish them the best of luck in their new station, and hope that they will do as much for the Grand Lodge of India, as they did for this Grand Lodge. What is our loss, is other's gain, I am sorry to say that the Regiment which relieved them has brought no Lodge with them but there are one or two members in the Reg. and 'tis hoped to have a Lodge started soon, the other lodges in the District are still jogging along. St. Johns Lodge No. 7 were unfortunate enough to lose their Lodge room owing to building alterations, and were unable to hold sessions for a few weeks, but pleased to say they have a new room and they held a very bright session last Monday. I hope they will go ahead now and keep their new room full up, the members of "Lochiel" S 45, have been to camp and not able to do much lately, but they hope to have a good rally round, when all meet again. I am very pleased to report that R. A. Unity 15 M have at last been able to change their night of meeting from Monday to Friday, also changing their place of meeting, they have jumped into "Good Will's" place, i, e, in Coffee Institute on Fridays. at 8 P. M. It is hoped that both

St. John's and R. A. Unity will greatly benefit by this change, as they can now visit each other, which could not be done before R. A. Unity is going strong; the Past Grand Secretary and Sister Williams are members of this Lodge now, and one or two other sisters have joined. I am not in a position to state how the lodge stood at the end of the last quarter as I have not yet received all D. G. C. T's report, owing to circumstances which could not be avoided.

The District Convention is still going well. We had a very pleasant session on Wednesday Nov. 1st. I have had the pleasure of conferring the District Degree on four members at the two last sessions. We are looking forward to the time when we shall be able to hold sessions more often, we give a hearty welcome to all District Degree members, whether, members of the Lodges in Bangalore, or Visitors. We say come along. We hold our meetings at the Coffee Institute, on the first Wednesday in each month, at 7-30 P. M.

Now dear Sis. and Bros. we are in the last quarter of the year in which we had to make our members up to 1,000, shall we do this ? I hope we shall, but let us see that we get the right sort, let us do the same as we have done in the past, consider well if the friends that are proposed for membership are fit to become members of noble a Order like ours. Several inducements have been held out to Lodges who get the largest increase. But do not let us strive to get friends in for these only, but for the sake of the cause we have at heart. How much we need to remember our work is, firstly, to lift up those who are sunk and to restore them to family, friends, and society, secondly to save others from falling into the snares of the tempter. For the first we need to exercise much love, much self sacrifice and much thought in order to bring our order unto those who so much need our help. For the second, we need to be real Good Templars ourselves, to remember that our cause, our Order, yea, our nation expects that every man this day and every day, shall speak her language with clean mouths and live such lives as befits members of a noble army, and loyal sons of a great and worthy mother.

Hearty greetings to all Co-Workers,

Yours very fraternally,

MISCELLANEOUS

TEMPERANCE

The greatest worldly possession which any one of us can desire is summed up in the Latin expression " Mens sana in corpore sano." This translated into English is "A sound mind in a sound body." To almost every person in the world, health of mind and body is their only wealth. To have this soundness, it is essential that they should be able to take proper care themselves. Sickness is the opposite to health, and it is brought about in many ways which are really too numerous to mention. But we as a Temperance Society are expected to do our utmost to promote temperance throughout the World. It is therefore with this in mind that I have named my Essay Temperance.

The true meaning of the word "Temperance" is moderation in all things, not only should we be moderate in drinking, but also in eating neither doing any of these to excess. There is much truth in the old proverb "Enough is as good as a feast." It is a well known fact that the man who eats too much is called a glutton, and he who drinks too much of intoxicating drinks is a drunkard.

Intemperance is a vice and the greatest curse of our land, and it extends all over the world. Judges, doctors, clergymen, and all authorities are all stedfast in their belief that it causes poverty, stealing and many other crimes, and in many cases has been known to be the cause of even murder. It also fills the prisions, workhouses and asylums. From drunkenness and vice thousands die annually, and the misery caused to themselves during life and to those associated with them is incalculable. But on the other hand by being temperate, providing other things are satisfactory, people gain the respect of all their associates. Temperance also produces thrift, health, happiness, success and long life.

Alchoholic drinks should be not be used unless prescribed by a medical practitioner. Taken, in any form alchohol is bound to have a harmful effect on the body and also on the mind. It hinders the digestion of our food, irritates and inflames and hardens the liver; which after a time is unable to perform its work ; it weakens the lungs effects the heart ; dilutes the blood thereby causing it to be impure, and finally attacks the brain and nervous system. From this it can be seen that alchohol affects almost every part of the body and therefore it must be looked upon as a very dangerous drink.

For the purpose of promoting temperance, branches of many societies have been formed throughout the world. These have done much good, having reformed many drunkards ; lessened crime, and above all they have raised thousands of people from dire poverty to respectable positions in life.

R. ELTUB.

A WARNING

My dear Sisters and Brothers,

The question we have before us at the present time is a question that has been troubling the great men of our Nation for a long time. It is the question of the Drink Traffic.

If you will kindly give me your attention for a little while, I will try to explain to you the terrible consequences that men who become addicted to the drink curse have to bear.

Eminent scientists of all countries have combated and studied this question in all its various ways and forms, and they have all come to the same conclusion, namely, " That it is the greatest curse and death dealer the world has ever known."

It seems incredible in view of this, that so many men should disregard this warning, and insist on walking on into their graves. If you were to tell one of these individuals that a man was waiting for him at a certain point to take his life, he would be in a blue funk, and would not move outside his own house. But if you put drink in this same light, he laughs at you, and tells you not to talk silly nonsense.

He fails to see that brandy and beer are as much his foes as a man waiting to rob him of his life. I myself would prefer the latter enemy, for the man would kill you and be done with you. But drink I suppose you will say that it takes drink a long time to kill anyone. Granted it does; that is its object. Before drink finishes with you altogether he likes what he calls a little sport at his victim's expense.

First he robs you of friends. Of course you can get other friends but of what use are they to you. The principal aim of these so-called friends is to drag you further and further into the mire, until you have no possible hope of getting out again, and then laughing and joking at the precarious position you find yourself in, leave you to do the best to yourself.

Then again, drink robs you of the power of thinking and doing for yourselves; and you have to fall back on other people to help you out of your difficulties. Would'nt you be proud to hear a remark passed about something after this style." By Jove he's a smart looking fellow. I wonder who he is?"

I say would you not feel proud? But what about the reply to this query. "Oh yes, smart looking no doubt, but absolutely useless through drink." Would you be equally proud to hear that reply.

I am rather inclined to think that your pride would sustain a very severe shock. Yet you hear remarks passed like this daily.

These are only two items of the many losses you incur by persuing this cursed habit. What else do you lose by it?

You lose employment, the love and respect of your parents, sweethearts, and even wives and children. In fact you lose everything that life holds dear. Do you not think it would be far better to suffer a painless death at the hands of an assassin, than to undergo such torment of mind as I have described to you? My friends, it is playing with fire to persist in this awful habit, and in the end the fire will grow tired of playing.

It is dangerous to even play with a spark, for that spark before long will burst into flame, and the flame into a roaring furnace, and you my friend will be in the midst of it, and there will be no getting out of it. All the Fire Brigades in the world would be of no avail then.

This all happens through playing with a spark.

I am referring now to the men who call themselves moderate drinkers.

The spark moderate drinker is playing with is the one glass of beer he takes at, say, dinner or supper time. From one glass a day he gets to two, from two to three, and three to four.

Then it is that the spark becomes a flame. That one glass a day increases to such an amount that he cannot carry one small wineglass full more. Then he lays, falls, or perhaps is thrown into the gutter, and he has to be carried himself.

In the morning he wakes up, and finds himself in strange surroundings.

What is the meaning of that wooden pallet on which he lies?

Surely it cannot be? But yes, it is, though he tries to deceive himself, it is borne upon his mind with terrible force that he is in a police cell. It is his first experience of such a place, but unfortunately in many cases it is not his last.

But that is not the worst. In the morning he is brought before the magistrate; he stands in a crowded Court where all eyes are upon him, he sees respectable men, perhaps some of his old friends, shrink from him as if he were a leper.

He sees the anguish and shame in the eyes of his wife.

He hears his children's cries at the sight of their mother's sorrow. Even they, poor little mites, understand in their own way, the disgraceful position in which their father stands. Then it is brought home to him, then is the time that the flames burst into a veritable furnace, and he hangs his head in shame and remorse.

His brain is burning, he reels, he falls and is taken away.

I have seen it happen my friends. I have a picture in my mind at the present moment of a scene similar to the one I have described to you and of which I was a witness.

The poor unfortunate was a miner who had been married about three years. He was the father of two children, a girl and a boy. His wife was a girl of little over twenty years of age.

Before his marriage, he had been a God-fearing man and strong Temperance worker. But unfortunately he had been led by a few of his so-called friends, and at the time I saw him last he was an absolute wreck, both morally and physigally.

The last I heard of him was that he was in an asylum, driven there by drink. Oh! my friends, take heed of this warning and keep away from the drink. It will be very little use trying to advise you when drink has got you in his grip. He will not let you listen to good advice. He is a hard master and will not release his servants without a struggle You become absolutely useless as a drunkard. Is not everyone who indulges in drinking, aware that when under the influence of beer, or wine, he would do things which he would never have done had he been sober? Is not intoxication pleaded in our Courts as an excuse for all kinds of offences, from murder downwards? When a man begins drinking he does not drink very often, but the craving for drink gradually grows so strong that he begins to take it several times a day. He then increases the amount he takes, and very soon becomes an habitual drunkard. In time it gets such a hold upon him that there is no possible hope of reformation. Take my advice for what it is worth "Keep from the drink." It is only when you give advice a fair trial that you find out what benefit it is to you. There is an old saying that is well known by every one, and that is:—"It is never too late to mend." But there is also another one that in my opinion is by far the best. It is this:—"Prevention is better than cure." If you never start drinking, you will never have need to reform.

Yours very fraternally,

J. W. ATKINSON, Secretary,

CHAPTER IV.

Mrs. Finch, the Squire's lady, continued to take an interest in Jessie, and as the years went by had promoted her from one post to another, so that when French the lady's-maid gave in her notice—saying that she was to be married in the autumn, and wished to spend a short time at her home first, —Mrs. Finch asked her if she considered Jessie capable of taking up the work, to which French replied that "a little coaching would work wonders and if the girl was willing she would give her an insight into her various duties." So it came to pass that Mrs. Finch interviewed Jessie, and as the duties were very light and the salary higher than any she had yet received, she agreed to accept the promotion if it met with approval from her mother. Mrs. Godsall felt flattered that Jessie should be asked to do the duties of lady's-maid, and willingly gave consent for a month's trial at the work, at the end of which time, if Mrs. Finch considered Jessie suited to the work, she would offer no objection.

In her new post Jessie saw more of the Squire's lady than she had done previously. and often felt grieved to see the outward signs of the secret drinking habits of her mistress. Very often she found the glasses that had been used with a little water from the flower vases in them, but there was no mistaking the smell of spirits from them, and once or twice she had been surprised to see Mrs. Finch slipping quickly from the store-room to her bodoir with a brandy bottle in her arms.

Matters were however coming to a crisis, one day Ronald, the Squire's youngest son, ran in to find his mother—bringing in a little bunch of wild flowers as a surprise,—and not finding her in the morning room, had run upstairs calling

"Mamma, Mamma;" as he received no answer to his repeated calls, he made his may from one room to anothor, eventually coming to the green-room—a room generally used for guests only,—pushing open the door, he was surprised to find Mamma lying upon the couch apparently fast asleep and like the thoughtful little boy he was, placed the flowers on a chair nearby, and quietly left the room.

Lunch time arrived, the gong was sounded, and the different members of the family took their seats; as Mrs. Finch had not come down, the Squire asked one of the Maids to go up to her room and say they were waiting. The maid came back to say she could not find her mistress, then Ronald remembered where he had seen his Mamma, and told of the descovery. Jessie was sent to the green-room to see if Mrs. Finch was alright as it was quite an unusual thing for her to sleep during the Morning; she however found her in what proved to be a neavy drunken sleep. The children were told Mamma was ill—as also were the servants—and the doctor sent for; he was obliged to confess that Mrs. Finch lad been drinking spirits, and so strong that her condition was serious.

The poor lady was put to bed, a nurse sent for, and the house kept as quiet as possible. In the servants hall at night, the day's affairs were discussed with bated breath, still the usual night-cap of hot water and whisky was indulged in, none seeming to realize the dangerous ground they were treading; though their eyes were open to the weaknesses and faults of others that indulged in the intoxicating cup.

Mrs. Finch made very slow progress on the way to recovery, and the nurse had strict orders from the doctor never to leave her alone, for the fits of depression that frequently held the patient in their grip were symptoms to be watched, so that it was not an unusual thing for her to ask anyone passing the sick chamber to take messages downstairs.

One Morning as Jessie was leaving the sewing-room to go down to lunch the nurse appeared at the door, asking for some small article from the butler's pantry which she needed at once; Jessie promised to send it up and with that object in view made her way to the pantry, the outer door of which stood open, she called Fanshaw and receiving no reply went inside to the door of the silver room here she received a terrible shock, Fanshaw, —instead of being engaged in cleaning the silver as Jessie had expected to find him—was hanging from one of the low beams, a chair was lying on the floor, shewing that he had stood upon it and securely fastened himself to the heam with a silk muffler and had then pushed the chair away with his feet, the weight of the hanging body causing strangulation. With a piercing shriek Jessie fell prostrate, and a rush was made to the pantry from varions parts of the house, everyone wondering what could be the cause of such an unearthly voice.

Her fellow-servants gently lifted Jessie from the floor, she was carried to her room, and efforts made to restore her from the swoon into which she had fallen.

The coachman rushed off for the doctor and the police, and great excitement prevailed; the body was taken down, artificial resperation resorted to, but all efforts failed to restore animation.

The doctor's attention was then directed to Jessie, for hours she lay tn an unconscious state. and when eventually she opened her eyes to recognise those around the bed, she was a changed girl; in the morning apparently in good health, the shock had entirely upset her system and she looked and felt like one who had been ill for some months, instead of only a few hours. Mrs. Godsall was sent for, and the doctor suggested that Jessie shonld be moved to her own home—as the shock threatened to bring on an illness of long duration—and as he said—the quiet of her home and the careful nursing by her mother would do more towards her recovery than medicines could do under the circumstances.

THE VINE.

CHAPTER V.

Among the frequenters of The Vine, it would have been difficult to find the father of a family, either young or old, of established moral principles. The customers of such places are of altogether a different stamp. Their very appearance tells what they are. The habitual drunkard with an eager, craving look, ill-dressed, and with disordered hair, his throat generally uncovered, even in the depths of winter, enters hurriedly, and asks for his half pint before he goes to work. He shivers, blows on his fingers, and speaks in a hoarse voice.

"It is cold this morning" he says, prefacing his words with an oath, and placing a piece of twenty centimes on the table. The master of the house understands what that means, and fills a small glass with brandy, and having examined the coin, puts it into his pocket, and replaces it by a piece of 10 centimes. The customer tastes the liquor first then swallows it and prepares to go out. But the host calls him back and reminds him that he has forgotten to take his change.

"That is true" (with another oath) "but give me another glass now, to save me the trouble of coming back for it."

This glass is also swallowed quickly. Here then are 20 centimes spent spent before sunrise 20 centimes a day make 73 francs for brandy only. For this sum a family of five persons might procure a good breakfast of milk during the same period. But this is not all. For this brandy drinker will return two or three times in the course of the day, and each time drink a pint of wine, and if he has extra work to do during the week, he will make himself amends for it by spending the whole of Monday, and part of Tuesday at the Public House. If he has a wife and children at home crying for bread, it is the last thought that troubles him. They will be thrown upon public charity; that will provide for them. It has nothing better to do. Is it not the duty of the rich to look after the poor? And your own duty, wretched man, tell me, what is it? How are you fulfilling your own duty, while you talk of the duty of others.

And you also, Oh, publican! who art living upon bread of the man's children, do you understand what is your duty in this matter? If you had but one atom of conscience, would you not refuse this man the drink which brutalizes him? Would you not try and persuade him to return to his work, and to lead another sort of life? But no. You can laugh at the drunken gestures and the senseless talk of this wretched man. You can laugh and put his money in your pocket. Yes! go, return to your cellar; draw more drink for this degraded being. Oh, man, without heart and conscience! But, remember that you will also have to give in your account for all this to the great Judge of both the drunkard and the seller of drink.

Let us do Daniel Veily the justice to say that he acted in a very different manner, as soon as he saw a man beginning to be tipsy, he refused to draw any more for him.

No, no, my good man" he would say "you have had enough, and too much already," "I ought to have refused you the last time you asked for drink."

"What! Daniel, you refuse me wine, well you shall repent of it. Will you give me some more wine, Yes or no?" "No."

"Then I will send this bottle at your head." "Take care; Crasson, take care what you are about" and Daniel would sike the bottle and remove it out of his way. If Crasson continued his ill-behaviour, Daniel would turn him out of doors. Crasson, in revenge, would go and spend his money elsewhere; or if not quite so ill-disposed, he would sit down in the street, and in a loud voice make the most bitter reflection on the hard heartedness of all publicans, and of Daniel Veily in particular, and the children as they passed by, laughed and jeered at the miserable drunkard. What a spectacle.

During the summer months the frequenters of the Vine varied in their character. The village customer gave place to workman attached into the country by prospect of employment in the new buildings or public works about to be commenced in the neighbourhood. Then the quarrelling, the fighting, the broken bottles, the gashes caused by broken glass, the black eyes, the low songs, and the dreadful language, made poor Margare tagain and again repent that she had ever given her consent to the opening of the Public House; neither did her husband own all that was passing in his own mind on the subject. Fortunately the two gentle little girls, Anna and Sophie, spent the greater part of the day at school. Jules also went there regularly during the winter, while in the summer he was much with his father in the field. The boy had faithfully kept the promise made to his Godfather. Once only had he transgress, and it was upon the following occasion:—Just before his mother's confinement, he one day entered the room where he found her alone. Poor Margaret, overwhelmed with work, had tried to regain a little strength by taking a small glass of aniseed of Bordeaun, with a crust of bread. That settled her stomach, she said. Instead of finishing her glass, she gave half of it to Jules, who had never before tasted this liquor. Thou rather strong, he thought it so good, that one day, being alone in the room, he poured out some for himself and drank it.

That which is sweet to the taste is often bitter to the heart, and so poor Jules found it. He suffered a thousand times more in his conscience than he had found pleasure in gratifying his appetite. He cried bitterly, and when questioned by his Godfather, he owned all to him.

It is a sad sight to behold youths, just emerging from childhood, acquiring by degrees habits of intemperance, and finding pleasure in the society of drunkards, it is still more sad to see the old, grey headed man, giving himself up to this dreadful vice. What! that aged man, he may just be upon eighty has he spent his whole life without having attained to knowledge or wisdom? We know that Esau, for a mess of pottage, sold his birthright; but here is one who calls himself a Christian; one, who, in the natural order of things, must soon be called to appear before God, yet who is ready to sell his soul for a glass of brandy! Old man, was it for this—was it to set such an example as this to your children and your grandchildren, that you were sent into the world? Has God spared you to so great an age only that you should come to such an end? and those hoary hairs which ought to be found in the way of righteousness, and be crown of glory to your departed life, are they to be only the jest and the scoff of passers by?

Alas! what scenes had poor Daniel to pass thro, and he had none but himself to blame for it.

A man in the village named Fredât, who spent his life alternately in hard work, and in drink, yet never seemed to be dead drunk, however great was the quantity he swallowed, was one of the chief frequenters of the Vine. Having no settled home of his the public house was his home three nights in the week. It was not known where he slept at other times; if not in some stable or out house, it was supposed he lay down to rest under the blue vault of heaven.

One evening he had remained at the Vine after all the others had departed. Midnight was about to strike. Daniel wanted to go to bed and told Fredât that he must go.

"If you like to sleep in my stable, I will take you there," he said.

"No," answered Fredât in a brutal tone, "I mean to have another pint."

"I draw no more to night; you have had enough come with me."

"I will not stir till I get my wine"

"You will not stir, do you say?"

"No" (with an oath)

"We shall soon see that"

and taking the poor wretch by the arm, Daniel drew him towards the door, which opened on the street. Fredât, furious at seeing himself turned out of doors, flew upon Daniel, and with his nails, tore open his cheeks. The latter retorted by two or three good blows, and with one kick sent him into the street. Daniel bathed his cheek with cold water, locked his doors, blew out the lights, all the time inwardly exclaiming "The plague take the public house, and cursed be the day that I gave ear to Cousin Demiollet's advice.

Reception to International Sentinel

One of the largest and most successful meetings in connection with Good Templary in Madras was held on Friday evening the 15th instant at the Baptist Institute, Vepery High Road, under the auspices of the "Crystal" Lodge, No. 5, to welcome Worthy Brother A. H. Chowrryappah, Past Grand Marshal, on his return from Europe, and to congratulate him on his having been elected International Sentinel at the 43rd Triennial Sessions of the International Supreme Lodge which was recently held at Hamburg. The large and spacious hall which was tastefully decorated for the occasion was crowded with visitors from the several sister Lodges in Madras. After the usual session a recess was granted for partaking of refreshments. Worthy Brother F. Morse, Grand Chaplain, then occupied the chair and announced the first item on the programme, a Piano Solo by Mr. A. Martin which was rendered in excellent style. A Mandoline Solo by Dr. Baynes was followed by a quartette by the Ivy Glee Club in which all the parts blended harmoniously, after which Mr. J. Samuel who possesses a fine deep bass voice sang the "Deathless Army" which was much appreciated. Another song by Sister Mrs Green concluded the musical part of the programme, and the Chairman then called upon Worthy Brother S. W. Samuel, Grand Deputy Marshal to make the presentation of an illuminated address to the guest of the evening, which read as follows:—

WELCOME ADDRESS.

To

BRO. A. H. CHOWRRYAPPAH,

International Sentinel,

Special Deputy International Chief Templar for India

Past Grand Marshal, Grand Lodge of Madras,

Past Editor of the Official Organ of the Grand Lodge of Madras, &

Past Deputy Grand Chief Templar, "Crystal" Lodge No. 5.

International Order of Good Templars..

WORTHY & ESTEEMED BROTHER,

We the Officers and Members of "Crystal" Lodge No. 5 have assembled here on this auspicious occasion to extend to you a hearty and joyous Welcome on your return to your Homeland from the West. We praise God that it hath pleased Him in

His merciful Providence to bring you back safely to your Home across thousands of miles of land and sea. We rejoice to behold your genial and pleasant face once again in our Lodge-room

During your travels in Europe we constantly followed you in spirit, though not in body, and noted your achievements with the keenest interest. Interesting reports of your doings in Hamburg,through the medium of your worthy father, were ever a means of creating in us feelings of unbounded joy and felicity. The news of your having been placed in an Office in the International Supreme Lodge was received by us with raptures. We were also extremely gratified to learn that the Grand Lodge of Hamburg accorded you a grand reception and presented you with a magnificent Regalia of your Office in the International Supreme Lodge.

Now on your return, we are extremely happy to welcome you not only as an Officer of that Supreme Body which presides over the destinies of Good Templary in the entire globe, but also as one of the great pillars of "Crystal" Lodge.

The Grand Lodge of Madras did precisely the right thing in electing you to represent them at the 43rd Triennial Session of the International Supreme Lodge; indeed, we feel bound to acknowledge that they could not have made a better selection. Your mission has undoubtedly been attended with unbounded success. We feel sure you would have done justice to the task allotted to you. That the International Supreme Lodge should have considered the Representative of the Grand Lodge of Madras, worthy, by virtue of his unqualified talents, to hold an Office in the Supreme Lodge is admittedly a fact which raises the prestige and dignity of our Grand Lodge in the eyes of the Good Templar world. Eight years ago the I. S. L. conferred a great honour upon the Grand Lodge of Madras by electing the then Representative to the honoured Office of Right Worthy Grand Chaplain, and it is peculiarly gratifying to realise that that Representative was none other than your worthy father—a veteran in the cause of Temperance and the corner stone of "Crystal" Lodge. To-day it rejoices our hearts to know that his worthy son is following in the footsteps of his worthy father.

We the members of the Crystal Lodge are fully cognisant of the significance and utility of your membership in this Lodge. Having transferred your membership from the "Crystal's Hope" Juvenile Temple in 1900, you have ever since worked with an unflagging zeal and energy even during the darkest periods in the history of the Lodge,—which fact must of necessity constitute one of your claims to admiration. We are not unaware that you have travelled in the West on two previous occasions on your own private affairs; but we feel sure that in your last visit to Germany and to the adjoining countries in Europe, in the special capacity of Representative of the Grand Lodge of Madras, you had greater scope for widening your experience and extending your knowledge which should be decidedly beneficial to the Lodge to which you belong as well as to our Grand Lodge. We are proud to have you in our midst, and we are confident that as long as you and your revered sire continue members of this Lodge our noble Charter will never be surrendered.

In conclusion we pray that God may prosper you abundantly in all your endeavours to do good, and that you may be a great and powerful instrument in His hands for the furtherance of our Noble Cause in this great and ancient land.

In the bonds of Faith Hope & Charity,
Truth Love & Purity,
We remain,
Yours very fraternally,

The Officers & Members of
"Crystal" Lodge No. 5.

Bro. Chowrryappah responded in suitable terms and gave a graphic account of his experiences of the I. S. L. Session and his visit to Germany which he said had surpassed his most vivid imagination. Several short speeches then followed from the representatives of sister Lodges, and the singing of the National Anthem brought the interesting proceedings to a close.—Madras Times.

LODGE NEWS

ARYAN LODGE No. 6.

Dear Sir and Brother,

It is with great pleasure that I render this my report on the workings of the above Lodge.

Our weekly sessions were conducted as usual.

On the 30th Ultimo and 6th Instant we had the honor of receiving our District Deputy and the Grand Chief Templar respectively in their official capacity.

The important event of the month is that one of our old members has rejoined our Lodge and our campaign has been recruited by an addition of a new member this week.

It will not be less my duty to say that public meetings do play a great deal not only in popularising our order, which extends over a region on which the sun never sets, but the effect of such in creating a lively interest in the minds of the general public is shown in the result of the grand public meeting held under the auspices of our humble Lodge on the 22nd September, when Mr. J. M. Cotelinga, who took a part in the programme of the evening has taken the pledge of our Order and in a few days is to join in one of the subordinate lodges in this district.

With fraternal greetings to you and to all coworkers in the field,

Yours very fraternally,

E. Balasubramania Mudliar,

Lodge Correspondent.

PRIDE OF THE HILLS NO. 14.

Dear Sir and Brother.

In continuation of my report last month about the construction of a Temperance Hall in Coonoor I have to inform you that this Lodge Considering the suitability of a big hall, has joined with the Excelsior Tennis Club, Coonoor at their request (whose Secretary is also a brother of the order) in constructing a united hall in Coonoor. The Committees appointed by our Lodge and the above said Tennis Club met and they have selected the site, prepared the estimates and sub committnes were also appointed to draft appeals for donations. After long discussion, and deep consideration the committees came to the conclusion that the hall should go by the name of Cosmopolitan Institute" Coonocr. The Sub Committees appointed to draft appeals for donations have done their duty and will soon be in print.

Now, coming actually to the Lodge proper I am glad to say that the strength had been increased by initiations during the last quarter and hope that it will further be increased during this quarter. The D, D. G. C. T. VI District has paid an official visit at the end of the last quarter. The questions of instituting a juvenile Temple which was pending has finally been reported favourably by the Committee that Rev. F. X. Veillard Manager of St. Antony's School Coonoor has no objection to permit the Students if the parents of the Children have no objection. Now the S. J. W. of our Lodge loses no time in seeing the parents of the Children and much credit is due not only to the S. J. W. but also to the brothers who are working more actively. In conclusion I hope that the same will be instituted soon and almost all the members of my Lodge will have the pleasure of attending the Juvenile sessions. I now conclude my report with the best greetings of the Lodge to yourself and the brothers and sisters of the Sister Lodges.

Yours fraternally,

Coonoor

Our past month has been a very pleasant and progressive one of good sessions, well attended and a spirit of harmony and unity that augers well for the future prosperity of the Lodge. September 27th saw one off the associate card and one sister initiated and our Programme was arranged by Bro. and Sister Capps it being the 50th anniversary of their wedding. They were accorded a hearty vote of congratulation by the Lodge as also were Bro. and sister Elson on the occasion of their wedding. The Election of officers was gone through in a most business like manner, the C. T. being re-elected. Nov. 3rd saw two Bros. off Assoc. card from "Pride of the field" Lodge, one off C. C. from the G. L. of India and two more on Proposition. It was decided to attend Church in Regalia on November 12th and to pay Deputations to Northern Star and Pride of the Field Lodges on the 6th and 15th instant. Officers were installed by Bro. Rushton D. G. C. T.

November 10th Sister Elson received off C. C. one initiation. It was decided to have a Reunion of Past and Present Members during December,

"OXFORDSHIRE PRIDE LODGE"

No- 52. Branch 2.

Dear sir and Brother,

It is with the greatest of pleasure that I render this my first report of the above branch Lodge. Although we are not by any means strong in members at present, I am pleased to say were able to have a session in the station on Oct. 13th seven Bros. being present out of eight, Bro. Branch Flower being on duty was unable to attend. On Oct. 20th we had an increase of one which was encouraging, our programme which was descufsion on Bro. Cookes' letter, on to improve our Grand Lodge finance, which turned out a difficult question to deal with in more ways than one. On Oct. the 27th no initiations, our programme somebody birthday was carried well thanks to our worthy C. T. Bro. Vinson who kindly supplied refreshments, and Bro. Harrison who entertained with talks on old times. On Nov. 3rd we had two initiations and one on proposition for the next week, which is a good start in the new quarter as we are looking forward to having 24 good standing by the end of the quarter. Now Dear Editor I will bring my report to a close with hearty greeting to the Mother Lodge and all Lodges in the Jurisdiction.

PERAMBUR HOPE LODGE No. 12. E.

Dear Sir and Brother

I am sorry I could not submit any report last month for reasons assigned to myself, however I sincerely trust that this one will not be lost sight of in your next issue, as the new year is fast approaching and I earnestly trust and pray God that our Lodge may have better luck in store, and each one of us will put our shoulders to the wheel to bring up the number we have lost though we have had a few initiations since, but it is not worth mentioning. As regards our sessions I cannot call it good nor bad, but middling this is very much due to our associate members (Military Bros.) being called away to different parts on duty where the best part of our enjoyment terminated. Dear Bro. Editor, I don't flatter them in any way, but from personal experience I make this remark. Our officers and members are no doubt doing their best to make the Perambur hope a success, and had it not been for the R. C. Priest here who is a stumbling block in their way, our membership should be stronger than what it is to day. I am glad to say that the District Lodge deputy and the Grand Chief Templar paid us a visit, during the last quarter and the G. C. T. has conferred the District degree on 9. of our members on his last visit, and those members who are qualified for the Grand Lodge degree were asked to come up to the Marine Lodge on 18th Instant, where he will hold a meeting to confer the above degree.

2. Members have responded to his call. Now dear Brother Editor, I think I will bring my report to a close with our fraternal greetings to all Lodges.

Yours in the band of OXFORDS PRIDE 52. M.Branch 3.

Dear sir and Brother,

I am very pleased to be able to send in a good eport of the above Lodge. I was commissioned Lodge Deputy on the 8-10-11, and since then we have had 10 new members join. 6 in October, and 4 to start the new quarter with, so you can see that we are doing some good work although there is only one company of men here. On the 4th of October we had 14 members leave here for Wellington so that left us very poorly off but still we have pulled along very well up to now, and I hope that we shall soon increase our number; the members of this Lodge are doing some good work in connection with starting a new Lodge in Calicut, but it wont be exactly a new Lodge but one which has been buried for years and we are trying to dig it out again, which, we hope to do in a short time. And that will be one way in which this Lodge will be helping the G. C, T. to get the 1,000 before next G. L. Session.
With greetings to yourself and all good Templars,

I remain,

Yours fraternally,

MALABAR'S PERSEVERANCE LODGE No. 8.

St. John's Parish Room, Cannanore.

Dear sir and Brother.

As this is my first attempt at the office of Lodge Correspondent, I hope and trust that the members will be a bit lenient with me. We have only been instituted now for the past 4 months and since then we have had 3 initiations and have been promised 2 more for the next week. We are now only 12 in number, but we hope for better times, but I hope that the members will not be in any way disheartened, but will all put their shoulders to the temperance wheel and do al their power to help their Chief to make the Lodge a success. I also hope and pray that we will soon be worthy of this name "Malabar's Perseverance." Rev. Kumaran is a true working member and it is he who is now trying to open out a Juvenile Temple and it is to be hoped that he will soon succeed in his undertaking. With greetings to you Bro. Editor and all Co-Workers in the Jurisdiction,

I remain,

Yours very fraternally,

PRIDE OF THE FIELDS LODGE No. 19,

I. O. G. T.

Dear Sir and Brother.

The responsible office of Lodge correspondent has once more fallen into my hands and although having held the office previously I feel that I am but a poor sucessor to my predecessor. Any, way I am going to try as hitherto to do my best. I am pleased to report that we have initiated 12 more friends into our Lodge and Order, not many but still it shows progress. I must here thank the Officers and Members of the above Lodge for re-electing me into the high and honourable office of C. T. again. I only hope that you all will give me the same support as you did last quarter. Our sessions are well attended and the programmes well carried out. We shall soon have all our Bros. back from the home land, then we shall be up to fighting strength once more. I am sure that all Good Templars on the Gold Field will be pleased to hear that Bro. Rickards our past D. D. hasquite recovered from his recent illness in the home land and will soon be amongst us. Bro. Prideaux will also be amongst us shortly. In conclusion I should like to offer to the members of the Good Templary Order on the Gold Field my sincerest thanks for all their kind expressions of sympathy extended towards me in the bereavement of my Dear beloved Mother, At such times as these a Bro. feels the benefit of belonging to the Order for the kind consoling words he receives. With greetings to you Bro. Editor and all coworkers in the noble cause.

Yours fraternally,

M. SERCOMBE, C. T. & L. C.
